GEI Consultants Ranks #144 on ENR Top 500 Design Firms

Firm advances 126 positions since 2006

BOSTON, Mass. — DATE — GEI Consultants, Inc., one of the nation's leading geotechnical, environmental, water resources, and ecological science and engineering firms, announced today it has again been ranked within the Top 500 design firms by Engineering News-Record (ENR) magazine. The firm's new ranking at #144 shows an advancement of 126 positions since 2006.

"Our continuing rise in these rankings results from our strong and expanded relationships with a wide variety of clients in both the private and public sector. We are expanding our technical services and geographic presence to meet the needs of clients who expect innovative solutions delivered by talented professionals at all experience levels," said Frank Leathers, P.E., president of GEI.

ENR ranks the Top 500 firms based on total dollars billed during the previous year. The surveys are sent to several thousand engineering and design firms who may be of sufficient size in the commercial markets. GEI has been participating in this survey for more than 15 years.
